Other Shows (non-exhaustive list):

- Les envies sauvages

A tender yet darkly humorous play in French pulled off by two promising young actors. Alice and Romain are in love. In desperate attempt to go back to basics they go off to live in cabin in the heart of the forest. Will their quest for utopia endure the depths of the forest? What if, to survive the world, we had to get out of it?

- D'office! by Michel Carcan and Othmane Moumen

Two actors, no props, no script: only their bodies speak! An impressive physical performance filled with humour. A human-sized cartoon, a 3D comic without glasses, based on the world of work.

- Sous la robe with and from Nathalie Penning

One-woman show in French. A real-life lawyer, she swaps her gown for a hilarious one-woman-show, and surprises. Yes, it is possible to practice a noble profession and make people laugh without bounds

- Vous avez dit Broadway? by Antoine Guillaume

Musical show in French. Accompanied on stage by fantastic pianist, Antoine will bowl you over with his insights into the art and practice of the genre, dragging us backstage in "Hair", the secrets of "Cats", anecdotes from "Fame", stolen successes, and the true masterpieces. . .

- Tailor-made standup comedy

A show featuring four French-speaking Belgian comedians who step up to the mic one after the other, introduced by a master of ceremonies. The headliner for the evening will take the stage last. Among the potential headlining artists: Alex Vizorek, Cécile Djunga, Freddy Tougaux, Martin Charlier, P-E, Manon Lepomme, Bénédicte Philippon, Kody and Zidani

- Bilingual French/Dutch standup

Several Belgian comedians from different communities take turns to address a topic they will choose together. Comedians will perform in their mother tongue. A bilingual master of ceremonies presents the show, taking the stage between each act.

- Shoes

Sequins or heels, velcro or laces, big feet or small, colourful or all muddy, for Simone and Solange, shoes are sacred! Each pair deserves to be pampered, patched and polished. Just by taking a closer look, we find that each shoe can give rise to new funny, absurd, unexpected or ravishing story. Without uttering a word, these two performers playfully let our imaginations run wild

- Ik zit hier!

Almost silent Dutch-language show for the little ones.

Climbing, climbing, walking and jumping

Swinging, throwing, pulling and pushing,

Calling, dancing, singing.

Counting, measuring, comparing.

Jumping, shining, cheering.

- Hans en Grietje - de deurenkomedie:

Dutch-language performance. Nothing is what it seems to be. Chaos is everywhere. Everything is going wrong for Hansel & Gretel. Mistakes and misunderstandings are piling up in an absurdly strange forest. Mmmmm, yes, sweets can be so tasty and Hansel and Gretel don't need much to be seduced. How would you be if you hadn't eaten anything for days and suddenly there were so many sweets in front of you? But they shouldn't have opened that door!

- Belgische Improvisatie Liga

A 60-minute Dutch-language improvisation show adapted to themes imposed by the client beforehand. The team consists of 3 improvisers and a pianist.

- Post

A play adapted from his appearance in the TV programme "Iedereen beroemd" in which Ief Gilis delivered letters in Italy in person. POST! is a story about Italy and the beauty of letters.
